Vanuatu's Own Bank

In collaboration with the Department of Education, National Bank of Vanuatu this week launched its IsiNet campaign targeting parents to register to Internet banking services to help them with school fee payments. Over a week's consultation between the Department of Education led by Acting DG, John Kaltau and NBV team, both parties have agreed for all Government assisted schools to register to NBV IsiNet Banking Services. This will encourage parents and teachers to register in order to facilitate school fee payments for their children. Acting Director Education Services, Mr Charley Robert states; "it is time for parents, teachers and schools to accept and embrace this change and use advanced technology to their advantage and NBV IsiNet Banking service is a great service to use".

"As part of our service improvement, the bank introduced IsiNet Banking to help customers do their banking in comfort, whether at home, at work or on the go. While at the same time saves customer time to queue up at the branch to pay school fees" adds Mr Tony Motuliki, Executive Manager Banking Services. This is just the beginning to a series of joint workshops and awareness programs that will be conducted in schools throughout the country.

As part of this campaign, customers names are entered into a draw for a daily prize giveaways of school packs.
